

EJ 192 – Insula

The design duo Ernst & Jensen have expanded their Insula table collection with a new larger coffee table, EJ 192. This table beautifully enhances the characteristic organic and sculptural expression of the collection.

The EJ 192 table is a natural extension of the popular Insula collection, which was launched in 2009. The existing two tables are often placed together, their different sizes creating a beautiful interaction. The new table adds an extra dimension.

‘This larger and taller Insula table is a natural extension of the Insula lounge collection. The format suits a large sofa and it stands nicely on its own as well as combined with the existing smaller editions,’ says designer Anne-Mette Bartholin Jensen.

A natural warmth

Not only have the design duo enhanced the size and height of the table; they have also made it possible to order the table with a brand new oak top, which adds a beautiful natural warmth.

‘We introduced wood as a table top for this new format; a minimalistic custom-made wooden table top presented in solid oak. The wooden table top has a powder lacquered frame in either black or white. This new version is a perfect match with the smaller monochrome aluminium says designer Anne-Mette Bartholin Jensen.
